Besides advertising by newspapers here was biliboard advertising and ome sending out of circulars and organizars were sent from Columbus ato all parts of the State. An jaborate beadquarters was mainalead here. All this, Eagle said, out about $75,000, in which is not neluded wast quantities of literature sent from Chicago and expenditures by W. Cooper Procter and others of Wood's Ohio friends for which the ampaign committee cannot be held o account. Eagle solemnly assured wood's Ohio friends for which the sampaign committee cannot be held to account. Eagle solemnly assured the correspondent that Harding and wood committees together did not spend more than $150,000, so far as he knew. There is a story drifting about among political gossips that wood mensy was so abundant in Scioto County that he county manager was slipping two dollar hills into each package of Wood leaflets with a slip saying "The money is for your trouble in distributing these scaffets among your friends."

When this was repeated to Eagle he flapped his long arms joyously and called his friends about him and repeated it with loud enjoyment. He said he'd hate to believe "the opposition," meaning the Harding managers, were willing to make him out such a fool as all that.

But it remains invariably true that when one sits down with anybody not more or less identified with the Wood boomers and begins to ask questions nearly every man says: "There has been nothing like it since Hanna's time and even then"—

There are no charges by anybody that any sums great or small were used for direct vote-buying. One is assured votes have not been an open market commodity in Ohio for years and years; it simply isn't done, But it is charged that the use of money was overpowering by the weight of its mass and smothered the real purpose of the party.

In Ohio Democrats can vote in Rethe party.

In Ohio Democrats can vote in Republican primaries by the simple de-vice of asking for a Republican ballot. The Harding people assert that Dem-ocrats by tens of thousands were stirred up to vote for Wood. Halley and to-day that the lavish advertis-ing by newsmapers posters and ciring by newspapers, posters and cir-culars "would have sold a Charley Chaplin."

The best of feeling, it is obvious, oes not prevail. The Harding people claim a victory from the primary because they had 125,000 votes to Wood's 109,000 and about 17,000 divided between Johnson and Hoover. The Wood people claim a victory because Harding, running as a favorite son did not set a majority of all the son, did not get a majority of all the votes cast and was crowded hard by Wood, who came into the State only Believ and I. M. Daugherty, Harding's national manager, who was defeated for delegate at large, take the position that as winners they cannot inaugurate a contest. Having spent less than $25,000 on the primary election in Ohio, they are poor and could not well afford, even though they wished to conduct investigations to
